

Dana Incorporated Names Seth Metzger Chief Technology Officer

October 9, 2024

MAUMEE, Ohio, Oct. 9, 2024 /PRNewswire/ -- Dana Incorporated announced today that Seth Metzger has been appointed Senior Vice President and Chief Technology Officer (CTO), succeeding Christophe Dominiak who is retiring from Dana.

Mr. Metzger has been with Dana for more than two decades and has extensive experience in engineering and technology development. He most recently served as Senior Vice President of Electrification, as well as President of the Dana TM4 joint venture. Mr. Metzger also held strategic leadership roles in engineering, including Vice President of Engineering for Light Vehicle Driveline, Vice President of Global Corporate Engineering and Electrification, and Senior Director of Core Engineering.

"Seth's deep knowledge of core engineering, systems integration, and complete vehicle architecture makes him an ideal choice for this role," said James Kamsickas, Dana Chairman and Chief Executive Officer. "As a veteran leader in Dana, he will continue to play an integral and strategic role in setting the company's innovative direction to ensure that Dana is delivering the most advanced traditional, hybrid, and electric-vehicle solutions spanning the entire mobility industry."

Mr. Metzger earned a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Toledo and an MBA from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He was named a Rising Star by Automotive News magazine in 2020, which recognizes leaders among automakers and suppliers who are making a significant impact in the industry and for their company.
